

The Bar Mitzvah – The Bat Mitzvah

Mazal Tov! This is a big day for your child – and you too.

Make sure the location you choose has liability insurance. In fact, all “contractors” i.e. caterer, photographer, DJ, should have liability insurance.

Whichever contractor serves the guests alcohol must have “Liquor Liability” insurance.

Instead, we can arrange “event insurance” for you but why spend the money?

If you are renting any digital music machines or high end stereo / entertainment equipment without a DJ/Operator – watch what you sign. Who is responsible for damage?

A professional party planner could handle these issues for you as a matter of course. We have a list of those we consider to be on the point.

If you host the event at home, your Homeowners Insurance should not exclude liquor liability – assuming you serve it. If you are a HUNTERS Client, you should be fine.

Depending on your family customs, you could have a lot of valuables and cash at the party location. Let us know, so we can make sure your Homeowners policy covers it. (Most policies have cash limitations and location limitations.)

If you are buying your child a major piece of jewelry or a collectible to honour the occasion, we should talk about insuring it (or perhaps not if it’s going to remain in the safe.)

May everything your heart desires for your child’s Bar Mitzvah / Bat Mitzvah day come true.
